BATES TRIAL CONTINUED. Terms of Court Fixed-Utah County

Affairs-Black Hawk War Veterans. Special Correspondence. Provo, Utah Co., Dec. 11 .- The crossexamination of George Bates, the de-fendant in the Bates case, took up all the forenoon in the district court yesterday. Defendant was examined minutely in regard to the circumstances surrounding the trouble which led up to the death of John Nordquist, and his testimony given at the first trial was carefully compared with the testimony he now gave. He denied taking off his jumper during the trouble. On re-direct he said the jumper had been brought into court by the prosecution on the first trial, and had been identified, but had not been introduced in evidence. It was torn and some of the buttons were mis-

The answer was objected to and Emmenter and the second defense and asked, for the purpose of impeachment, whether they had said to Orin Bates, Frank Lineback and Robert Evans, the day after the encounter, that Bates had picked the club up in the corral with which he struck Nordquist. Albert denied having said so, and Anderson said he did not re-member, but did not think he had.

The evidence of John Lindberg, taken at the first trial, was read. This testimony practically agreed with the testimony of defendant. In regard to the ral. Lindberg testified that it had been applied to the cow, and that Nordquise had misunderstood Bates. Witness had told Nordquist so at the time. He had also tried to separate Bates and Nordquist, and had been prevented from do-ing so by Anderson, and the remark was made by someone that the men would not hurt one another, because they were too drunk. When Nordquist and Bates came down to the corral, pre-vious to the scuffle, they came down with their arms around each other "as oving as they could be."

Lindberg's testimony, however, was to the effect that Bates "stripped off" his jumper before he and Nordquist commenced to wrestle.

Frank Lineback testified that on the day following the trouble between Bates and Nordquist he and Orin Bates, Robert Evans, Albert Nordquist and Charles Anderson were in the cor-ral together, and Albert Nordquist and Charles Anderson told them that Bates had picked up the club in the corral, with which he afterwards struck Nordquist.

Orin Bates and Robert Evans also testified that Albert Nordquist and Charles Anderson told them that defendant had picked up the club in the corral.
